SATURDAY, MAY 3RD, 1873.

The Modoc Indians and Louisiana Negroes:

The impudent Yankees who petitioned to Gen. Emory for the bodies of Captain Jack and other Modoc chiefs, before they were captured, or killed, in order that they might embalm them and take them about for a show, to make money, are not likely to be gratified soon. The U. S. soldiers thus far are meeting with reverse instead of success, in their warfare of extermination against the Indians in their stronghold.

We confess that we do not feel that degree of regret at their disappointment, which we might have done under different circumstances, in view of the very different disposition manifested by the government and Radical politicians towards the Modoc Indians and Louisiana Negroes. When Capt. Jack and other Modoc leaders violated their flag of truce, the cry of vengeance and extermination against the whole race rings out from head to foot of the government and Radical politicians, but the Louisiana Negroes do the same thing, for which they are roughly handled by the white men, and we hear no such cry; on the contrary, one Massachusetts paper already calls for the extermination of the white race, and the Radical Kellogg government of Louisiana is clamorous for the assistance of the U. S. Government to punish the white race; and Radical Newspapers all over the country are busily engaged in inventing slanders and lies against the whites, and excuses, apologies and denials of the crimes of the Negroes. We hope that the truth may bring them to shame and confusion in the end, and rejoice that there is a throne of justice and judgment that they cannot deceive or evade.

The late Legislature directly and indirectly authorized the issue of something near ten million dollars of bonds, which will make an increase of taxation of something over seven hundred thousand dollars annually. The people should resist an increase of taxation and let the holders of these bonds get the interest as best they can.

We omitted to mention last week that our Representative, Hon. J. M. Renfro, would not return immediately after the adjournment of the Legislature to his constituency, owing to business engagements in distant cities. When he returns he will doubtless hold himself in readiness to give an account of his stewardship.

Business in an opposite direction prevented us from participating in the excursion and pic-nic party to Woodstock iron works in this country, on Tuesday last. We have seen a number of persons who were present and returned, all of whom seem to have been highly delighted with the excursion, pic-nic, beautiful scenery and surroundings of Woodstock, and the valuable works and improvements; they also speak in enthusiastic terms of the munificent hospitality of the Messrs. Nobles.

It is our purpose, so soon as we can spare time from pressing business engagements, to avail ourselves of the kind invitation of Messrs. Nobles, and spend one or more days at these new, magnificent and valuable iron works; after which we will give such description and information as we may think will interest our readers.

We were highly gratified to learn that these works are now making sixteen tons of splendid iron per day; although not working near up to their capacity. One of a company, who plans and successfully carries out such valuable improvements for developing the resources of our country, is worth, and deserves more honor, than whole regiments of mere politicians and office seekers.

The dearth of editorial matter, both general and local, in this issue, may be accounted for by the absence of both the editors the greater part of the week—the one in Rome, Ga., the other at Gadsden Court. The same cause prevented that attention last week to the editorial department, which will in the future be given.

On Sunday night last the barn and stables of Mr. Street, living in the suburbs of Huntsville, was burned together with eight head of horses and mules, twenty head of hogs, and a quantity of grain. Supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

FROM CALIFORNIA.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—The Modoc Indians are encamped at the base of the mountains at the lava beds.

Nearly all the cavalry horses have the epizootic.

BY TELEGRAPH.

FROM CANADA.

TORONTO, April 28.—A fort Garry Manitoba, dispatch, reports fighting between the Americans and Blackfoot Indians, and a large number of Americans were killed. There is trouble in the Blackfoot country, in consequence of which 8000 Indians have crossed the line and threatened the interior settlements and Manitoba.

The Modocs have entrapped and defeated a party of troops.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 29.—A courier arrived at Yreka reports a battle. Nineteen Federal soldiers, including Captain Thomas and Lieuts. Howe and Wright were killed, and twenty-three wounded, including Lieutenant Harris. Others are missing.

ST. LOUIS, April 30.

The round house of St Louis and Kansas City Railroad, burned. The loss is $60,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30.

A lava bed special says: "It was a fearful trap and the first four shots were only fired to draw the troops more directly between the fire of the Indians on right and left." The rout was complete and with the exception of the officers and non-commissioned officers the majority of whom lay stretched on the ground with the life blood ebbing away, the watchword was "sauve qui peut." During the night the Indians were creeping thro' the rocks to scalp and strip the dead.

A Yreka dispatch says the people at that place and Scotts Valley are arriving fearing a general Indian war.—Citizens in valleys of Oregon above the lakes and lava beds are moving away with their cattle and property.

WASHINGTON, April 30.

Sherman has an official dispatch forwarded from Schofield, confirming the lava bed news. Maj. Green commanding on the west side of the lava beds, ordered Capt. Thomas, with 70 soldiers and 14 Warm Spring Indians to reconnoitre four miles from camp. The party reached the designated point and were resting. No Indians had been seen. The party was fired upon and part of the command panicked and the organization in a great measure ceased. Stragglers reached camp half past one p. m. Green went to the assistance of Thomas and found Thomas command entirely disarmed and scattered.

Details fully confirm the casualties telegraphed yesterday.

The remains of officers have been sent to Yreka. The bodies of four warriors were found near the scene.

The Indians occupy the rocks four miles below their old position and it will be impossible to surround them with the force here and en route. The report is signed by Gillem, Sherman has telegraphed to Grant and Belknap for advice, both of whom are absent from their duties here.

TENNESSEE.

KNOXVILLE, April 20.—Heavy frost and ice this morning. Young cotton and vegetables were killed in this vicinity. Cold weather is reported in the up country.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

COLUMBIA, April 20.—Heavy frost and ice this morning. Young cotton and vegetables were killed in this vicinity. Cold weather is reported in the up country.

ILLEGIT DISTILLING.—Capt. Latham, the efficient Internal Revenue Collector for this District seems to be wide awake. Through two of his active Deputies, Messrs. L. M. Peavy and Geo. H. N. Stovall, during the past week, he destroyed several stills in full blast, seized one car, 1300 tubs, destroyed 14,700 bushels of hops and 400 gallons of salings, and arrested two prisoners. All this was done in Jackson County.

About two weeks since a homicide was committed at one of these illicit distilleries, while the parties were under the influence of liquor. A man named Stovall killed one Brewer.

These distilleries do inexcusable injury wherever located. One of these establishments had become so great a nuisance not long since, the citizens in that vicinity waited on the distiller and caused him to desist. We hope this is the end of these dens of rum.

Capt. Latham deserves the thanks and confidence of the Government and people.—Huntsville Advocate.

TERRIBLE HAIL STORM.

[Special Correspondence, Selma Times.]

BIRM MILL, April 29, 1873.

Editor Times: We have had one of the most terrible hail storms ever witnessed in any country. All day yesterday (Monday) the clouds were gathering, and the rain falling, when the dark lowering, in the evening it became almost clear, but about 8 o'clock the wind commenced blowing from the west in fitful gusts, rapidly increasing in frequency and violence until 9 o'clock when the rain and hail began. At first the hail was very small, but it increased until 9 o'clock it came crashing through glass, tearing strong linen curtains to pieces, and sounding like bricks thrown against the house. Very many of the hail stones were as large as hen's eggs, and one was picked up as large as a man's fist. I picked up one that came through the glass and curtain, some 15 minutes after it had fallen—it measured two and three inches in diameter, and one way and seven and half the other.

These were blown down and many large trees completely disengaging the farmers in this section. Events to be seen in New Orleans, etc., etc.

A negro man and a white boy killed each other in an altercation in New Orleans, etc., etc.

Poetry.

From this bitter hour forever in my heart its roots are set; Give me nothing for remembrance; would to God I could forget!" Then he returned and left her, striding down the lily-scented-path, In a heat of pride and passion, all his heart abeam with wrath.

"If the pulsing, selfish fancies of her idiot brother be true, and rule for her behavior, she is not the wife for me.

"Who is wed with me shall answer only to her husband's call, And my wife is mine entirely, or she is not mine at all."

Down the broad, box-bordered alley, past the old wall ivy-twined, Out beyond the crested gateway, never looking once behind— So he left her. She stood silent, pale with piteous surprise, Gazing mutely with pain, long after he had vanished from her eyes.

On the gravel lay the flower—little worth, alas as such, In its bruised and faded sweetness. Stooping, she with tender touch,

Smoothed the crumpled leaves, and laid it in the hollow of her hand, Kissed it thrice, and murmured softly, "You shall never understand,

"Oh, my brother, God do so to me, and more, if I betray What forlornness you have wrought to me, unaware, this evil day!"

And the vow was kept so duly that the brother never knew, Never guessed the buried secret of her rosemary and rue.

When he questioned why her lover came no more, she smiled and said That she liked her maiden freedom, and had yet no mind to wed.

It was such a serious matter! and beside, what need had she Of a lover a husband—with a brother dear as he?

So she kissed his pallid forehead, and content, he never guessed How the little sprig of rosemary lay withered on her breast.

Year by year they twain together, watched the summer lilies blow, Watched the seed-time, and the harvest, and the coming of the snow.

Year by year her youth departed; faded slowly from her face Bloom and roundness, but a finer beauty blossomed in their place.

Something like the shining sign of the pilgrim's forehead set In the dream of old Bunyan, evermore the gazer met;

And her brother's feeble spirit knew her, through his dying eyes, For the angel who had led him to the gate of Paradise.

On his grave successive seasons shed their blossoms one by one; Twice the winter frosts had melted, twice the lilies to the sun.

Had disclosed their golden centres; when a traveler came at last, At the ancient gate dismounted, up the garden alley passed.

She was sitting where he had left her, seven weary years ago, And the sky was warm above her with the rosy after-glow.

In its basin plashed the fountain; on the ivy-covered wall chirped the sparrows, and the rosemary was growing green and tall.

Stealing near, he heard her whisper, "It is seven long years to-day Since my love was counted worthless, my remembrance thrown away."

"I would be content, God sees it, with rosemary, if I knew There was not to him remaining any single leaf of rue.

Listening, this he heard her whisper, in the summer stillness sweet; Then his soul was shamed within him, and he fell before her feet.

"Never surely yet from Heaven was so pure an angel sent, And I am the chief of sinners, but behold me! I repeat.

"Oh, my darling, can you pardon me the cruel wrong you bore? Can you trust me?" he entreated. "Can you love me as before?"

In its moss-grown marble basin, with how musical a fall Plashed the fountain! How the sparrows chirped and fluttered on the wall!

Seven weary years had vanished as a vision of the night,

And the garden seemed enchanted ground to echo her delight.

Did she hold herself too cheaply? Was it lack of maiden pride, That she came to him so easily, a fond and willing bride?

That I know not! but this only—in the kingdom far and near, There was never wife honored, never woman held so dear.

And her life flowed on henceforward as a sweet and glad a tune As her blackbirds and her thrushes piped in leafy nests of June.

Tall her lilies sprang, and greenly her rosemary spread and grew, But in all the garden never was a single root of rue.

The Dutch expedition against Acheen has been recalled to the sea shore, where entrenchments have been thrown up to protect the forces until reinforcements arrive. Acheen where the war exists, is a province of the Island of Sumatra, and is populated by Malays, Chinese and Dutch, the latter having control of the government and most of the trade. The population is nearly six thousand. The natives are a vigorous, warlike race, possessed of considerable intelligence, and will make a most stubborn resistance to Dutch authority, now the fight has commenced. The ostensible cause of the outbreak is some obnoxious trade regulation, by which the inhabitants of that portion of Sumatra were robbed and plundered. But the real cause is a deep-seated hatred of the Dutch, which has long been cherished in the hearts of the people of Acheen. They will seek for no quarter, and most likely extend none to those who oppose them.

Radical Party vs. School Teachers

If any thing could deepen the profound conviction in the minds of all honest men, of the utter venality and corruption of the Radical party, it would be the hypocritical and specious efforts of Radical papers to shield their party leaders and rulers from their just share of responsibility for the passage of unpopular laws by Congress and State Legislatures, and also the failure of others that the people desired. When the tide of popular indignation against the "salary steal" rose so high that they could neither ignore nor resist it, they could look to every place but the right one to fix responsibility. They could blame Congress as a whole and democratic members in particular; but not a whisper of complaint against president Grant can be found in any of them—the man who, above all others in the nation had most influence to defeat the passage of the law, or to veto it after its passage. They know that this man, against whom, they are too venal and subservient to utter a word of complaint, not only favored, but openly countenanced for the passage of the law.

But still more inconsistent, hypocritical and specious, than even this, are the efforts of Radical papers in this State to shield Gov. Lewis from responsibility for the failure of the law to provide for paying the School Teachers of the State. They can shed crocodile tears and talk pathetically of the hardship of failure to pay the just and hard earned claims of the worthy and useful school teachers; but utter no word of complaint against Gov. Lewis who defeated the law by a pocket veto, after it had been enacted, mainly through the efforts of democratic members. One Radical paper in its futile effort to save Lewis from censure, says, "no man in the State regrets more deeply than Gov. Lewis, the inability to pay the teachers." If he regretted it so deeply, why did he not sign the bill that provided for it? This is too "thin" Mr. Radical, and will deceive no one.

This effort of Radical papers to deceive, and their failure to place censure where alone it properly belongs, becomes still more disgusting and reprehensible when it is remembered with what impudent and persistent falsehood, they tried for two years previous to the last election to make the democratic party responsible for the failure to pay teachers; when they knew, and everybody else knew, that the wasteful, thieving, plundering legislation of the Radical party, procured by bribery, had so embarrassed the State as to leave no money in the treasury for that purpose.

THE MODOC INDIANS.—Since the battle of the 26th April, in which 19 U. S. officers and soldiers were killed and many wounded, it is said not a shot has been fired, and there is but little news from the lava beds. The officers and soldiers will doubtless learn from this last lesson in Indian warfare, to proceed with more caution in future, if nothing else.

After all, it seems that something may be said in mitigation of the bad conduct of this tribe of Indians, against whom the cry of extermination has gone forth; for the violation of their flag of truce and murder of Gen. Canby and others. The Missouri Republican reviews the history of an act by a U. S. Military officer, twenty years ago, of nearly if not quite equal atrocity. This officer was Capt. Wright, and the transaction took place in 1852, in which near twenty of this same tribe of Indians were slaughtered while engaged in a peace conference. A brief history of that transaction may be found in another column of this paper. It proves that the Modocs may have been instigated to some extent by a spirit of revenge and retaliation as well as that of savage and unmitigated treachery.

But there is another reason why this government ought not to be too fierce in its revenge upon the Modocs; and that is that it has been so often faithless on its own part to treaty obligations to both Indians and white men. How often since the days of the pious and peaceful Quaker, William Penn, have the Indians been driven back and back to barren and inhospitable regions; and when their annuities have been paid them, a host of carpet-bag Indian traders have been permitted to pounce upon them, and drive them to desperation by heartless cheating, robbery and murder. And how often have they been the victims of faithless and dishonest Indian agents. Whilst reflecting on this subject, it might be well to come down to later times and remember how often the government has been faithless to its promises and stipulated obligations to the white race, especially of the South. Of these we will now refer to only two notable instances at present, and leave the reader to call to memory numerous others at his leisure. The first, the utter failure, on the part of the civil government to comply with the liberal and generous terms of surrender by Generals Lee and Johnston; and the second, that of Congress going back upon itself, violating its own law and forcing upon the people of Alabama an odious and obnoxious Constitution, and State and County officers fairly defeated by a majority of thousands of votes, cast in exact obedience to the requirements of the law. It may be convenient for the actors in these faithless and disgraceful transactions to forget them; but they are matters of history, and can never be forgotten by the sufferers.

Last week we spent in the thriving and growing town of Gadsden. Shall speak of our visit more particularly next week.

GRAND JURY REPORT.

TO HON. W. L. WHITLOCK, JUDGE OF THE 12TH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT.

The Grand Jury of Calhoun County for the Spring Term of 1873, would most respectfully ask leave to submit the following report:

They have diligently enquired and true presentments made of all such matters were given them in charge and required of them by the laws of the country.

They have personally inspected the jail and find it in a clean and good condition as to the health and safety of the prisoners; and they would also remark that the improvements made lately by the Hon. Commissioners Court add greatly to the comfort and safe keeping of the prisoners.

They have scanned the official bonds of all the County officers with regard to their correctness and sufficiency fit and to be proper for their offices.

They have examined the office and books of the Judge of Probate and take pleasure in saying that they find them neatly and systematically kept and well arranged in proper order as the law prescribes.

They have also examined the offices and books of the Sheriff and Clerk of the Circuit Court, and find the books correctly charged and well arranged for the accommodation of those having business to transact with said offices.

They have examined into the condition of the County Treasury, and find the books of the Treasurer well kept and the official books of the office are arranged in a clear and distinct manner.

They have also examined the books and papers of the Judge of Probate and take pleasure in saying that they find them neatly and systematically kept and well arranged in proper order as the law prescribes.

They would recommend that overseers of roads give more strict attention to the condition of their roads, and that they make an effort to bring them more fully up to the legal requirements and those of the public.

The Grand Jury having discharged the duties devolving upon them, to the best of their ability, feel unwilling to discharge the office of their Honor, W. L. Whitlock, their thanks for the courtesy, zeal and energy with which he has discharged his arduous duties during the present term of the Court. The thanks of this Grand Jury are also tendered to H. L. Stevenson, Esq., Solicitor, for his promptness and strict attention to the business coming before them and his cheerful readiness at all times to render any assistance or give any advice required of him by law, or for the accommodation of the Grand Jury. They also return thanks to the Sheriff, C. P. Read, and his Bailiffs for their promptness in aiding them in the discharge of their duties.

Respectfully Submitted,

ALABAMA NEWS.

The livery stable of Mr. Reuben Strul in Huntsville, was destroyed by fire a few days ago. Four horses and 5 miles perished in the flames. Mr. Strul lost a buggy and harness and all his property, including about 180 barrels of corn, 5000 bundles of fodder, 5000 of sheep, and a considerable quantity of seed, and 15 or 20 hogs and pigs. He estimates his loss at $3,500. The fire was the work of an incendiary.

The Tuskegee News of the 1st says: "One of the severest hail storms we ever witnessed passed over this section of country last Tuesday morning about 7:30 a.m. Some of the stones were as large as eight and one quarter inches in circumference. The wind whereof the memory of the oldest inhabitant runneth not to the contrary, recalls no such storm as that of last Tuesday. We fear great injury has been done the young crops throughout the country by it."

On the same subject the Selma Times of the 2d says: "We are informed that a heavy hail fell northeast of the city on Wednesday evening last, and that the young cotton was badly injured.

Lightning struck the telegraph wires somewhere on the line of the Selma, Rome and Dalton railroad Thursday morning, and ran along the wires into the office at Selma, melting six keys on the "safe record," badly frightening several young men in the office, and sending a couple of messengers to the office to deliver messages.

The Woodstock iron furnace is in successful operation. It nets the company about $18 per hour.

A class of forty persons was recently confirmed by Bishop Wilauer in St. John's church, Montgomery.

The last session of the legislature continued five months and five days, including the recess of twenty-one days taken during the Christmas holidays—four and a half months of actual and continuous session, and costs the State $160,000.

About eighty of the candidates of the Alabama Agricultural and Mechanical College at Auburn, arrived in Montgomery on Thursday last, and were presented with a handsome flag by the ladies of Montgomery and were wined and dined extensively.

It can't be beat.

One of some of the enterprising merchants mailed an order to New York for goods eight days since and instructed his merchants to ship by the Great Southern Freight Line. Yesterday, only eight days for the round trip, the goods were laid in his store. This is the quickest time yet, and the Great Southern Freight Line made it. In this connection we refer to the presence of Col. W. T. J. Woodward, who, in 1868, became the representative of the line, and opened it for business in this section, as being in the city. Col. W., by his pleasing and energetic business address has won the patronage of the merchants and shippers of all this section of country; whenever you meet him you will find that he is a credit to the line. To the world, not only in the South, but in all other influences combined, is the Great Southern Freight Line indebted for its business in Rome and down the Selma Road. Col. W. is now making a trip in the interest of the line.

Rome Commercial.

A BEAUTIFUL young girl was married in San Francisco last week, and, at the conclusion of the marriage ceremony, she turned to her husband and said, "George, kiss me. I am dying." The husband complied with the young bride's last wish, fell dead to the floor.

MISS EBERHART HANGED.

PRESTON, WEBSTER COUNTY, GA.,

FRIDAY, MAY 2d, 1873.

from reliable authority, the following facts:

That Spann was completely under her control, and a perfect slave to her passion and caprices. There was decidedly more reason for the pardoning of Spann than of Miss Eberhart. I was informed that Spann was scarcely a degree above Eberhart. I was informed that Eberhart was a vigorous, lusty, intelligent young woman. By her beauty and her passion, she completely bewitched him and held him in absolute control. She was the willing accomplice in the crime; she was the intelligent and deliberate accomplice in the crime, and, as such, must pay her part of the penalty.

Reporter—But, Governor, how do you reply to the petition of the majority of the jury that convicted her? A majority of her convicts assert that they convicted under a misapprehension. How do you avoid listening to this?

Gov. S.—Simply because when they convicted her, they were on oath; when they were not as officers they convicted; as citizens they would pardon. As officers they dealt in justice; as citizens they would deal in mercy. As a man, I might sign a petition for her pardon as a magistrate I must enforce the law. There is scarcely a petition sent in, in which a majority of the convicts do not petition for the pardon of the very man they were obliged, when under oath, to convict.

Reporter—It will be the first woman ever executed in Georgia, and I thought that possibly this fact might have an indirect influence with you.

Gov. S.—Not at all. The law allows me to recognize no difference between man and woman. Miss Eberhart's case is a very bad one.

Spann was very desperately in love with her. She wanted him to marry her. He promised to do so as his wife was out of the way. They concluded to put her out of the way. It was a deliberate, calm and malicious plot. For two months she knew that Spann intended to kill his wife on the first propitious chance; and that the reason for this murder was that he might have perfect freedom in the enjoyment of her charms. Without her full concurrence the reason for the murder would have failed. A part in the villainous programme had already been assigned her. The fact that on two occasions her courage failed her, only intensified the infamy with which she still persisted in the plot, and the cunning with which she kept it secret through days and weeks and months to its full accomplishment.

The venerable George Stapleton of Jefferson county, led in prayer.

Miss Eberhart then took leave of her friends. She said she had no fear, but was able to rejoice in this hour. She thanked her friends for their kindness. She freely forgave all who had ever wronged her. She felt in her heart she loved all mankind. She desired to meet her friends in peace in heaven.

As she ceased speaking, the sheriff asked her: Susan, are you ready? She replied, "Yes I am ready," and walking firmly up the steps, stood on the platform of the gallows.

The Rev. Mr. Cawood read to her the 88th and 130th psalms, and addressed her a few words of comfort, saying that he felt the greatest confidence in the genuineness of her conversion and in the sincerity of her profession of faith.

Fresh Cocoonut Candy at W. T. & C. S. Alexander's.

Mr. H. A. Hayes offers for sale a valuable, commodious and handsomely located residence in Cross Plains in this county, description and price of which may be found in advertisement in this paper.

Cross Plains is surrounded by picturesque and beautiful scenery, in the heart of a fertile, healthy and densely populated valley. Nance's creek and Loosahatchey or Terripari creek run near the place, affording abundant water power and abounding with the finest fish. Altogether it is the most desirable section in this end of the State, and we have no doubt that the price mentioned is considerably less than the cost of improvement.

Medical Blunders.

From the period when surgeons applied their salves to weapons instead of wounds to the present wide-awake, the medical profession has often unwittingly taken side with Disease in its conflicts with the human system. Even yet in spite of the teachings of centuries, some Physicians believe in depriving their patients, already seriously exhausted by sickness, with powerful evacuants, enetics, salivants, cathartical plasters or the laud. But, providentially, public intelligence is ahead of these medical fossils, who are still seriously exhausted by sickness and horribly mutilated Wright's body. Chief Enos was afterwards captured and hanged. He died exulting that he had wreaked vengeance on the leader of the massacre of his murdered tribe.

Though the infamous butchery perpetrated by Wright is not so sufficient apology for the murderous treachery of Capt. Jack, yet from a strictly Indian point of view, there is a logical and justifiable connection between these two bloody deeds. Of the two Wright's was the worst. He was a white man and an American, and therefore might be supposed to have some faint conceptions of humanity, honor and justice while Jack and his comrades, being savages, supposed to be utterly destitute of these qualities. Wright's slaughter of the Modocs was entirely unprovoked; Jack's murder of Canby and Thomas did have provocation.

WHY THE MODOC'S KILLED CANBY.

—Some allusion has been made in these columns, says the Missouri Republican, to the event of twenty years ago, which is believed to have been the prime cause of the massacre of Gen. Canby and Dr. Thomas. The details of this event are summed up in the following telegram from San Francisco, dated the 20th inst:

"In 1852, North California was disturbed by Indian troubles, and the same year a company, under command of Capt. Benjamin Wright, was organized and proceeded from Yreka to the Indian country around Tule lake and the lava beds. They fought three unsuccessful battles, the force being insufficient for the subjugation of the Modocs. They returned to Yreka, organized a larger force and marched again to the Modoc country. Winter approaching, found the Modoc supplies of blankets, ammunition and food extremely limited; consequently the Modocs were anxious for a cessation of hostilities. In April Capt. Wright received the Modoc overtures with great cordiality. A peace conference was agreed upon, and a place appointed in the immediate vicinity of the massacre of Gen. Canby. The conference met, consisting of about twenty-five Indians and thirty white men. While discussing the terms, Wright gave the men a signal and in a moment killed eighteen Modocs, and seven Modocs escaped. Thus perished the fathers of the present Modocs. Capt. Jack was then years old, Schonchin nineteen and Boston Charley and Hooker Jim two years old. It is probable revenge grew with age, culminating in the Canby and Thomas massacre. Some years afterwards Wright was appointed Indian agent on Rogue river. Wright was apprehensive of Modoc vengeance. One night a Modoc chief named Enos murdered and horribly mutilated Wright's body. Chief Enos was afterwards captured and hanged. He died exulting that he had wreaked vengeance on the leader of the massacre of his murdered tribe.

Though the infamous butchery perpetrated by Wright is not so sufficient apology for the murderous treachery of Capt. Jack, yet from a strictly Indian point of view, there is a logical and justifiable connection between these two bloody deeds. Of the two Wright's was the worst. He was a white man and an American, and therefore might be supposed to have some faint conceptions of humanity, honor and justice while Jack and his comrades, being savages, supposed to be utterly destitute of these qualities. Wright's slaughter of the Modocs was entirely unprovoked; Jack's murder of Canby and Thomas did have provocation. Let not the innocence of the victims and the horrible manner of their taking off put that out of sight altogether. We cannot afford to ignore facts, even where Indians may derive a slight benefit from

LOUISIANA.

NEW IBERIA, May 6.—It is reported that the Metropolitans attacked Dr. Blanche's forces near St. Martinville, and were repulsed with a loss of three killed and two wounded. Dr. Blanche has 200 men and one cannon. It is stated that the Metropolitans were driven back to St. Martinville.

Later advices from St. Martinville report the position of the Metropolitans as precarious, and they may at any time be overpowered by the tax resisters. The people of this section seem determined to pay no taxes to the Kellogg Government unless compelled by the United States troops.

NEW ORLEANS, May 6.—The news from St. Martin and adjoining parishes creates much excitement in the city. It is understood that a movement is on foot to seize the police stations while the police are in the interior. Political complications are increasing, and the tax resisters claim they are gaining strength, while Kellogg declares that all opposition is disappearing. Reinforcements of Metropolitans left this morning for St. Martinville.

Captains of steamboats have been warned not to transport the Metropolitans and consequently did not bring them to Bay, knowing that their boats would be blown up.

It is generally supposed an engagement took place last night, but no reports have been received to present hour.

The Gen. Hindman Murder of 1868—A Memphis Man Arrested on Suspicion.

MEMPHIS, April 16.—It will be remembered that on the night of the night of September 25, 1868, Gen. Thomas C. Hindman, formerly a Confederate General from Arkansas, was mysteriously murdered while sitting, smoking pipe, in the parlor of his residence at Helena in this State. The murderer fired at General Hindman through the window and lodged two buckshot in his neck. His right hand, with which he held the pipe, was shattered by the shot. In eight hours after the infliction of the wounds he died. The mysterious murderer has never been discovered, and if any well founded suspicion was entertained against any person or persons, the public has never become aware of it, as no charges were ever made against any one, and, although every effort was made by the authorities to discover the author of the cowardly deed, nobody was arrested for the crime.

Nearly a month ago the widow of the murdered General, who still resides in Helena, received a letter from an anonymous correspondent dated "Dominions of Satan, March 17, 1873." This letter referred to General Hindman's assassination and the writer of it declared in substance that he was one of three persons who witnessed the shooting and that if she wished to prosecute the murderer every necessary evidence to convict him would be forthcoming free of charge to her. In the meantime she was required to keep the utmost secrecy, and was invited, if she desired to pursue the matter further, to insert the following "personal" in the Appeal of this city: "Mist—I promise to keep your secret." Mrs. Hindman inserted the personal on March 27, and the next day received another letter from her unknown correspondent dated "On board steamer Grand Tower, March 28, 1872." The tenor of this note was to convict the writer, by his own acknowledgment, of having fired the shot that killed Hindman. He wrote: "There are several medal men in your town. Two of them were with me on that night and another one paid the money." Then, continuing, he writes: "When your husband was praying for his little children, and his blood flowing, his assassin stood by. Could I have recalled ten minutes I would have given the world." Other statements were to the effect that Mrs. Hindman had never seen, and did not know, her correspondent that he would give her all needed proofs to convict two persons; and that the writer hoped and prayed that the time was at hand when she could punish persons who, she thought, were her warm friends. The communication closed with an invitation to Mrs. Hindman to meet him at some hotel in Memphis, and to address, "Frank, Appeal office," giving her decision on the subject.

On Saturday last Mrs. Hindman came to this city and went to the Peabody Hotel. On the same evening her correspondent called to see her, and said that he would tell her all about the murder of her husband. He introduced himself as Frank Burdett. At Mrs. Hindman's suggestion, a friend of hers, Judge Mangum, of Helena, was called in to hear what he had to say. What occurred at the interview has not been developed, but Burdett is said to have made a confession which will indicate who were the guilty parties in the murder. Unknown to Burdett, Mrs. Hindman has taken several of her friends into her confidence, and had also told Chief of Police Athy, two weeks before, of the circumstances, and made him aware of her appointment with the writer of the letter at the hotel. The Chief was at the hotel on that night, and was prepared to arrest Burdett immediately after the conclusion of the interview, but at Judge Mangum's request he desisted. The Judge told him that the interview had been satisfactory, and Burdett was undisturbed on his departure from the hotel, whether he went to the Appeal office to obtain a letter that he, was informed was awaiting him. Now it so happened that Chief Athy had placed a policeman at that office with instructions to arrest Burdett when he should call for the letter. The sight of the policeman at the office frightened Burdett away and he made his escape, pursued by the officer. He eluded pursuit, only, however, to be arrested at his house on the corner of Concord and Second streets near the Ohio depot.—The arrest of Burdett developed the fact that he is a person known variously as L. Vaughn, alias L. D. Vaughn, alias Flowers, and that he is the same person who had written a letter to the Chief of Police under the name of Vaughn relative to a safe robbery in his office, some months ago, by a notorious gang of this city. It also appeared that he had been in Helena about three years ago and pretended to be a detective at the time of the express robbery in that place. He then went by the name of Frank Burdett.

After his arrest Vaughn was locked in the station-house until yesterday, when he was brought before Judge Halsey, of the Second Circuit Court, on a writ of habeas corpus.

LOUISIANA.

The Plot to Africanize the State.
A correspondent of the New Orleans Picayune, who recently visited Grant parish, thus describes the Kellogites there. He says: "It was their plan for all the negroes in Grant parish to organize themselves secretly, with the aid of the negroes from the adjoining parishes of Rapides and Natchitoches, and seize the court house and other public buildings at Colfax. These they were to fortify as a stronghold and basis of attack. As soon as the posse under Sheriff Nash (which they expected) had been defeated, they were to extend their attack in a sort of radius, the negroes rising as they advanced and aiding them in the completion of their purpose. They thus expected to cut the whites up in detail, and, as they themselves expressed it, 'kill all the men and children, and keep the women for themselves.' These organizations were perfected for weeks before hand, and were made during the pretended exercise of church worship, the colored women and children not being permitted even to understand the secret. The negro leader, Ward, openly stated their object, and a few nights before the attack and the one preceding his escape to New Orleans, made a speech in Pope's colored church, near Alexandria, to the colored men of that neighborhood, stating his plot, and urging them to arm themselves with all speed and take part in the outrage. He himself, he said, was going to New Orleans, where he had been promised arms and ammunition, which he would forward to them on some steamboat, which, when she landed, they were to seize, and taking the eatables, kill the passengers and others, and keep the boat for purposes of transportation. This meeting was held at night, and without lights, the doors of the church being closed so as to prevent intrusion. Every plot was arranged and every plan adopted to make the revolution a success, when the negroes of Alexandria were to rise and murder the whites, seizing the town. You can have all the women for yourselves, only kill the men and exterminate this G-d d-d white race out of this country." Some of the other details are too horrible for description, and yet had it not been for the brave determination of Sheriff Nash and the gallant men with him, they would most certainly have been brought to a successful issue, and the entire portion of our State bathed in blood, while outrages too fearful to mention would have been perpetrated by the lawless negroes.

Kellogg's Story About That Shot:

After transacting my business, I left the office of Mr. Hutchinson, with whom I had been conversing, and proceeded to my carriage. On descending the steps, I noticed half a dozen gentlemen standing together on the left, and some few on the right of the carriage. As I passed them, one gentlemanly looking man, rather stoutly built, of good appearance, said to me, "Is your name Kellogg?" To this I replied "Yes." "Then," said the man, "You're a G-d d-soundler." I replied, "I don't know who you are; I have never done anything to you that would justify you in addressing me in that manner. I proceeded then to step into my carriage and while doing so I noticed somebody standing behind the first man raise his fist and use some blasphemous epithet, which I did not understand. The driver started his carriage as I took my seat, when, simultaneously, a shot was fired from the crowd, by whom, I don't know. The ball passed through the carriage, passing immediately under the hair near the back of my neck. This caused me intuitively to raise my hands which, perhaps, created the impression that I had been wounded."

DANIEL PRATT, whose name is as familiar in this state as a household word, died at his residence in Prattville, on the 13th. He was born in New Hampshire, but had been a citizen of Alabama nearly half a century. He was in the seventy-fourth year of his age. A man of great energy, fine practical ability, good sense, and unquestionable integrity, enterprising, liberal and public spirited, he was one of the pioneers of manufacturing in this State; and his success in this department of industry points the way to the eventual independence of the section for which he did so much by precept and example. He was known in every part of Alabama, and honored for his splendid qualities of head and heart and his useful life wherever and by whomsoever known. He died in the midst of great works and leaves uncompleted great plans for the development of the resources of the commonwealth. His loss is a public calamity.—Selma Argus.

SATURDAY, MAY 31st, 1873.

The Jacksonville Lodge of Good Templars return thanks to Mr. Barney Allen, the Conductor of the late Excursion train to Cave Spring.

The Talladega Committee of Good Templars, return thanks, among others, to Mr. Parr and Committee and the Jacksonvilleians for magnanimity, self-sacrifice and kindness.

PIANO TUNING.—We are informed by a private letter from Mr. H. A. Smith, Bookseller and Stationer of Rome, Ga., that Mr. Ramsey, a Piano Tuner, will be in this place shortly. He represents himself as master of his business, performing his work faithfully and at very reasonable rates.

The gentleman has arrived and is now ready to do work. He is a practical piano maker.

The last number of the Asheville Register brings the details of an outrage perpetrated by some Federal soldiers and a Southern Renegade, in St. Clair county, that ought to be resented by the State Authorities, by the severest punishment of all the parties to the offense. The soldiers may not be easily reached but Standifer, the supposed instigator of the affair, is a citizen of Etowah county, and can be punished. This Standifer is a lawyer, and claims to be an attorney for the A. & C. R. R., the corporation in whose supposed interest he has put an indignity upon the people of this State that he will long be made to feel. Already the Bar of St. Clair County have passed resolutions condemnatory of his participation in the crime set forth below, declaring him a disgrace to his profession, and pledging themselves to withhold from him, in future, the courtesies of the profession. But this is not punishment enough. Standifer's hide is too thick to be pricked by these. The law that he has despised ought to take hold of him and punish him into a sense of his responsibility to the community in which he lives.

The facts of the outrage, as set forth in the printed statement of the Asheville Register, are briefly as follows: A bridge on the A. & C. R. R. was burned; two men were arrested for the crime, carried before Judge Whittle, and by him admitted to bail, to appear at Steele's Station on the Road, in the County of St. Clair, May 19. Promptly on that day the parties appeared, and while they were in the custody of the Sheriff, awaiting the arrival of Judge Whittle, an extra train from the direction of Chattanooga reached the station. In the coach of that train Standifer, a so-called U. S. Marshal and a few citizens only were to be seen. In a box car, in the same train, who concealed a body of Federal soldiers, who, as a signal from the so-called U. S. Marshal, emerged therefrom and, by force of arms, kidnapped the prisoners, led them with shackles, and moved off with them amidst the cries of their distressed wives and little ones.

What these lawless men have done or will do with the State's prisoners has not yet transpired; but if the Governor of Alabama had the backbone of the Governor of Georgia; and if he was not in strict harmony and sympathy with the political party that upholds these outrages at the South, that U. S. Marshal would be made not only to quickly release his hold on the prisoners, but to suffer severely for his temerity. As for Standifer, the Grand Jury can get after him, and when they do, his shirt won't hold shucks. He won't be caught resuming any prison-gear.

THE GREAT TORNADO.

We have no room to occupy columns in our paper with the particulars of the three terrible Tornadoes, which have been briefly mentioned by Telegraph, as passing through Iowa and Illinois on the 22nd inst. They are described as the most fearful and destructive of human life, stock, fowl, buildings, fences and forests, ever witnessed in that section of country. That our readers may have some idea of them, we copy the following of particulars from the Louisville Courier-Journal:

"Latest Particulars of the Whirlwind that Swept across Washington County, Iowa."

"Three Most Terrible Tornadoes that Ever visited Iowa and Illinois."

"People Crushed to a Jelly, and Cattle Driven Head First into the Ground."

"Houses, Barns, Fences and Forests Gathered into the Bosom of the Air."

"A Fearful Story of Destruction."

Owing to the absence of one of our printers on a visit to Jackson county, we were deprived of the pleasure of attending the Good Templar's Pic-Nic at Cave Spring, Ga., and consequently we are unable to make a report from personal observation; we therefore adopt the following from the Talladega Mountain Home, which we hope will be satisfactory to our readers.

The Good Templar's Pic-Nic and Excursion.

The Day one of Unadulged and Unsobered Pleasure.—The Committee Faithful in the Discharge of Every Duty:—Not an Incident to mar the pleasure nor the enjoyment of a single one of the Great Throne.

On last Thursday morning the 22nd inst., according to previous arrangement and understanding, the welcome whistle of the steam engine, was heard reverberating through our city, awaking all those from pleasant slumbers, who had retired the preceding night, and were soon dreaming of the pleasures in store for them on the to-morrow.

Soon after the notification our streets leading to the Depot, were crowded with happy hearts and countenances all beaming and radiant with pleasure anticipated from the excursion and Pic-Nic at CAVE SPRINGS.

Reaching the Depot, we noticed that the GOOD TEMPLARS had the evening before handsomely decorated with flowers, evergreens and garlands the iron horse, that was to carry the seekers of pleasure and enjoyment to the point of destination. The committee had placed in front of the engine the evening previous in large letters of green

"WELCOME."

When we observed this the letter "L" had been extracted and the word above transformed into the more expressive which caused some merriment and happy fits from some of the ladies who had worked so hard in the suitable and appropriate decoration of the engine.

By six a.m. the excursionists were all in the coaches and the "good things" placed in the Commisary car under the charge of the Quartermaster, Captain A. W. Bowie. The train was made "all right," and then the train with its precious freight moved forward, amid joyful exclamation and the waving of handkerchiefs.

The following communication was read, the invitation of Mr. Stanton accepted, and the thanks of the convention returned him for the courtesy shown the body.

Proceedings of the Alabama Press Association.

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA, May 15th 1873.

This body met pursuant to adjournment at Sublett Hall, city of Birmingham, at 10 o'clock, a. m., and was called to order by Col. S. J. Safford, President of the Association. In the absence of the Secretary, D. C. White of the Moulton Advertiser, was requested to act as Secretary.

Col. Powell, Mayor, on behalf of the citizens of Birmingham, extended to the Association the hospitalities of the city. Col. Safford, on behalf of the convention, returned thanks in a short address.

Ryland Randolph of the Tuscaloosa Blade, also tendered the hospitalities of the city of Tuscaloosa, and invited members of the convention to visit Tuscaloosa in a body, before returning to their homes. Invitation accepted.

On motion, the section of the constitution relative to the time and mode of receiving members was suspended, whereupon, M. L. Frierson of the Bearcat News, D. B. Handly, North Alabama Reporter, Mike L. Woods, Birmingham Iron Age, Ryland Randolph, Tuscaloosa Blade, and Col. Richard H. Powell, Union Springs Advertiser and Times, were elected members of the Association; came forward and paid their dues and signed the constitution. The President then proceeded to read the Constitution and By-Laws. Some amendments thereto were offered, which were laid on the table for the day, under the rule.

The following communication was read, the invitation of Mr. Stanton accepted, and the thanks of the convention returned him for the courtesy shown the body.

NORTH AND SOUTH RAILROAD.

BIRMINGHAM, May 15, 1873.

To the President of the Alabama Press Association, Birmingham, Alabama:

DEAR SIR—Willing to extend the hospitality of the North and South Alabama Railroad, I herewith send for your information the use of a special train to visit the Red Mountain Iron Works, or any other point you may wish. The train can be in readiness at any hour in the day you may designate, either to-day or to-morrow.

Very respectfully,

M. L. STANTON, Sup't.

Convention adjourned until 5 o'clock p. m.

TUESDAY EVENING, 5 o'clock p. m.

The Association was called to order at this hour by the President. The regular Secretary being present, the minutes of the last meeting at Montgomery were read, and in the absence of objection, were adopted.

The roll being called, the following named members, either in person or by proxy came forward in obedience to constitutional requirements, and paid their annual dues:

Eppie Tucker, (represented by L. F. McCoy), Congregational Methodist, Opelika, Alabama; L. W. Grant, Republican, Jacksonville, Alabama; J. F. Grant, (represented by L. W. Grant), Republican, Jacksonville, Alabama; Jos. Shuckfordin, North Alabamian and Times, Tuscaloosa, Alabama; W. Brewer, (represented by Mike L. Woods), Hopewell Examiner, Hayneville, Alabama; J. M. Whitehead, Independent Thinker, Greenville, Alabama; S. J. Safford, Times, Selma, Alabama; W. W. Screws, (represented by M. M. Cooke), Advertiser and Mail, Montgomery, Alabama; D. C. White, Moulton Advertiser, Moulton, Alabama; J. M. Macon, (rep. by Col. R. H. Powell), Eufaula Times, Eufaula, Alabama; L. H. Matthews, Jefferson Independent, Birmingham, Alabama; W. O. Monroe, (rep. by Col. S. J. Safford), Whig and Observer, Eufaula, Alabama; H. A. Hale, Herald, Birmingham, Alabama.

Reports of committees were called for. The committee on advertising rates not being present to report, a new committee, consisting of Messrs. Shuckfordin, Cooke, and Powell, were appointed and ordered to report on to-morrow. Committee on patent outside was called for, and were granted further time. M. L. Frierson was added to the committee in place of Sydney Herbert, absent. Committee on Unions asked for, and were granted further time.

On motion, the President, Secretary, and Mr. L. H. Matthews were appointed a committee to report upon the expediency of electing an orator and poet for the next annual meeting of the Association.

Convention adjourned until to-morrow.

BIRMINGHAM, May 16, 1873.

Convention, upon return from the Red Mountain Works, assembled at twelve o'clock.

Committee reported favorably upon the expediency of electing a poet and orator for the next annual meeting of the Association.

On motion, the convention proceeded to the election of an orator, which resulted in the election of Col. Richard H. Powell, of Union Springs Advertiser and Times. Election made unanimous. The election of poet was deferred until the regular election of officers.

Committees on rates and patent outside asked leave to retire to complete their reports.

Convention took a recess until 2 o'clock p. m.

2 o'clock, p. m.

Resolution to instruct the Secretary to procure the names of all the reliable newspaper agencies, and publish the same, after some discussion, was lost.

The committee on advertising rates, offered the following report, which was put by sections and adopted:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON ADVERTISING RATES.

To the convention of the editors and publishers of the State of Alabama.

Your committee to which was referred the subject of advertising rates, have had the same under consideration, and beg leave to report as follows:

1st. That the minimum charge for advertisements, not for three months in weekly newspapers, shall not be less than the following, viz:—

For one square of one inch, $3.00

" two squares, one inch each, 8.00

" three " " " 12.00

" four " " " 16.00

" one fourth of one column, 25.00

" one half of one column, 37.00

" one column, 55.00

For double width advertisements and all advertisements containing cuts, not less than ten per cent, advance on above rates.

2d. All advertisements of less space than half column, to be considered transient if inserted for less time than three months, except in case of regular patrons who advertise either consecutively, or at intervals the year round, and all legal advertisements shall be considered transient.

3d. Transient rates, or rates for such advertisements as are defined above, shall be $1 per square of one inch for first insertion, and 50 cents per inch for each subsequent insertion.

4th. The charge for advertising for more than three months, shall not be less than as follows, viz: For six months, not less than 50 per cent, advance upon regular rates named above for three months, that is to say, the charge for three months be $5, the charge for the same advertisement occupying the same space, for six months, shall not be less than $7.50; for twelve months, the charge shall not be less than 50 per cent, advance on the regular rates for six months, that is to say, if the charge for six months be $7.50, the charge for the same space for twelve months shall not be less than $11.25.

5th. Accounts for advertising shall be considered due and payable after the first insertion of the advertisement.

6. Obituaries and marriage notices shall be charged as regular advertisements.

7. All communications recommending individuals for office, shall be treated as advertisements, and charged for accordingly.

8. Advertisements inserted in daily newspapers for a less time than three months, shall be regarded as transient, and charged accordingly.

9. The charges for transient advertisements in the daily papers of this Association, shall not be less than $1 per square for the first insertion, and 50 cents for each and every insertion subsequent thereto.

10. Notwithstanding any contract, shall be so construed as to forbid the publisher or proprietor of any newspaper belonging to this Association, from inserting any matter or publication gratuitously. All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOSEPH SHUCKFORD, R. H. POWELL, M. M. COOKE.

A courteous invitation of Colonel Constantine to visit his summer resort, L'Orient, near Blount Springs, was accepted and the thanks of the Convention tendered Col. C.

The committee on patent outside and inside, offered majority and minority reports, which were read, and, on motion, both reports were indefinitely postponed.

MAJORITY REPORT.

In view of the fact, that many papers connected with this Association have resorted to the co-operative system of publishing newspapers, purely from considerations of economy, and that they thereby patronize a monopoly remote alike in sympathy and interest from our people, your committee recommend that the Association devise means by which the papers of this Association may be enabled to derive all the benefits of the co-operative system without paying duty to a foreign monopoly. To this end, your committee would suggest that this Association recommend the establishment of a co-operative publishing company in one of the central cities of Alabama, in and under the supervision of the Press Association of Alabama. We believe that this course would eliminate the objectionable features of the co-operative system, while it would afford all desiring to use it, at once, all the benefits of that system as regards economy, and the moral and countenance of their brethren of the Press Association.

Your committee deprecate any coercive measures by this Association.

On this subject, and would trust the press to meet in advance to the coming wave, by building up home interests and attracting to our beloved State the capital and influence which would unavoidably attend a fraternal coalition of the journalism of Alabama against the world.

J. M. WHITEHEAD, M. L. FRIERSON, L. H. MATTHEWS.

MINORITY REPORT.

As some of the committee on patent outside and inside, I would most respectfully report that I consider the same, as now used, injurious to the interests of the newspapers of this State. If those papers that are now using them desire to continue to do so, it is the sense of this convention now using them desire to continue to do so, it is the sense of this convention that a co-operative plan for furnishing them be organized by the Association.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.
For Diseases of the Lungs and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before the whole history of medicine, has any thing won so widely and so deeply the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints through a long series of years, and among most of the physicians of the country, it is now, in their estimation, as it has become better known, a uniform character and power to cure the various diseases of the lungs, that it has made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to gather forms in which the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the lungs, it is equally well adapted to sudden attacks of Cough, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are some gain to the use of it, it is well worth the money provided with this antidote for them.

Although Consumption is thought in some to still give place to cases where the disease seems settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health, and to a long life. So there is no mystery over the disorders of the Lungs and heart, that the most obstinate of yield to the physician, and to them the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear. Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chilblains, Hermitism, Fever, Dumb Pox, Small Pox, Measles, &c. and indeed all the afflictions which arise from malarious, marshy or miasmatic poisons.

As above implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Aesculus, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous ingredients. The number and importance of its cures in the aque distillates, are literally beyond account, and it is now the most popular and effective of Ague medicine. Our pride is gratified by the knowledge we receive of the radical cure even of those diseases, and where other remedies had wholly failed.

Uneducated persons, either resident in, or traveling through the country, are well protected by taking the AGE CURE daily.

For Liver Complaints, arising from torpid action of the Liver, and the consequent, stoning of the Liver into healthy activity.

For Bilious Diseases and Liver Complaints, &c. in all their forms, and for all the remarkable cures, where other medicines had failed.

Prepared by J. C. AYER & CO., Boston and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass., six gold all round the world.

PRICE, $1.00 PER BOTTLE.

A CHEAP HOME.

I will sell the House and Lot where I now live. The Lot contains two acres, bounded with well-sawed fencing, one and a half acre in claret of second year's growth; an excellent well of never failing water, curbed to the top with stone. The dwelling is new, nicely painted, contains six rooms; in the yard a well or dairy with brick floor and walls, with handsome flower yard in front of the house. A rich vegetable garden in rear of the house. The improvements are new and good.

The health of the community is unsurpassed. The scenery is beautiful around, country seats being in full view. Church and school facilities are all. Parties from the low country, in search of health, would do well to stop here, as I am determined to sell. Price $1200.00.
